DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 42-72 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Considering Claim 42: Claim 42 contains the newly added limitation “for immobilization of a bio-carrier” in the claim. This original specification contains no support immobilization of a biocarrier and no definition for the term. While the original specification contains support for immobilization of enzymes, there is no support for the metal-polymer chelate immobilizing a bio-carrier.

Claim 1 has been amended to recite a “a biocarrier skeleton” The original specification does not refer to a skeleton or disclose how water, the hydroxyl group containing polymer, and metal salt would react together to form a skeleton.

The range limitations for the hydroxyl group bearing compound and the amino group bearing molecule do not have support in the original specification. Additionally, the ranges have been amended to report to five decimal places. The ranges disclosed in the original specification are never given with an accuracy greater than to two decimal places.

Claim 1 contains the limitation “a mixture of the chelates forming a chain which contains positive and negative polar functional groups”. The original specification provides no support for chain formation or positive or minus polar functional groups.

Considering Claim 51: Claim 51 has broadened the nature of the polymer bridging agent from polyvinylpyrrolidone. The original specification only provides support for the polymer bridging agent as being a monosaccharide or polyvinylpyrrolidone (pg. 8). This is not sufficient to support the broader limitations claimed.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 42-72 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Considering Claim 42: Claim 42 claims a solution of metal polymer chelates for immobilization of a biocarrier containing the metal polymer chelate. It is not clear how the biocarrier contains a metal polymer chelate that is also being used to immobilize it. Additionally, the metal polymer chelate is said to contain the biocarrier. This creates a cyclical nature to the claims that leads to an indefinite nature to the claims.

The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Claim 1 requires a main skeleton comprising water. It is not clear how water can be part of a polymer skeleton as it is a small molecule. Therefore, the manner in which the water is incorporated into the skeleton is not clear. Thus the scope of the claim is indefinite.

As the scope of the claims cannot be determined at this time, application of prior art cannot be attempted at this time.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed April 27, 2010 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The applicant has corrected several of the limitations addressed under 35 U.S.C. 112 in the previous action. However, several rejections are still outstanding after the amendment. Most importantly the structural limitations claiming the interactions between the components of the claim are not disclosed in the original specification and cause the scope of the claim to be indefinite to the point that an examination cannot be attempted. These limitations have not been corrected by the new amendments. Should the applicant wish to continue prosecution, they are advised to return to the claim structure as originally filed (where the components are named, but the method of interaction is not named), with the genus narrowed to distinguish the claims from the art that has been cited during prosecution. This is based on the fact that the interactions are not supported by the original specification, and thus would invoke the written description rejections.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
